1. A hard concrete surface, all weather road [924] runs from Mezokovesd southwest to Pusaszony and continues to Budapest. The same type of hard concrete surface, all weather road [924] runs from Mezokovesd northward to Miskolc and then runs westward to Lillafured.
2. The all weather road is classed as a first class highway in Hungary and is designed for heavy usage. The road is in good condition, is over two lanes wide and the curves of the road are shallow which makes it possible to attain high speeds. The road runs over small rolling hills.
3. A loose surface, all weather road [909] runs from Mezokovesd south southeast to Szentistvan where it then runs northward to Mezőnyarad where it joins up with the main road which runs from Mezokovesd to Miskolc. The road is over one lane in width, has a pretty good road foundation and occasionally is able to bear heavy usage. However, when it rains or when the snow melts the road becomes deeply rutted and potholed and the traveler must go off the road and drive alongside in the fields.
4. A number of loose surface, dry weather, dirt roads [937] run in the vicinity of Mezokovesd, Szentistvan, Fiskola, and Keszthelyes. The dirt roads are about one lane in width. During the dry season the roads could bear heavy traffic. However, whenever it rains the roads become impassable. The dirt roads run through level terrain.
